Sun rises tomorrow at 5:55 a. m. and sets 6:28 p. m. High water at 6:22 a. m. and 6:52 p. m.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—For this section fair, warmer tonight and Wednesday; light variable winds, becoming southerly.

Seminary Notes.

Bishop Kinsolving has rented Mr. T. M. Whites cottage and his family will spend the spring on the Hill. The Bishop's time is taken up with his visits to the various dioceses in behalf of his great work in Brazil.

Holy week will be observed at the Seminary by services and addresses each morning at eleven o'clock.

The students are arranging for the Cantata of the Crucifixion to be given in Christ Church, Alexandria, Good Friday night. Some of the voices are from Washington and a great musical treat is expected. A silver offering will be taken up for the benefit of the Fairfax street mission.

The baseball season has commenced at the High School and after the long inclement winter the boys are rejoicing to their ability to enjoy outdoor sports once more. The ball team of the school lost the first game of the season Saturday to the Georgetown University Reserves. The score was 15 to 8.

Police Court.

[Justice H. B. Caton presiding.]

The following cases were disposed of this morning.

Richard Buckley, colored, charged with assaulting William Woodland, colored, with a knife, was dismissed. The plaintiff and defendant were boys, and their case had been continued from yesterday.

Thomas Gaskins, colored, arrested by Officer Smith charged with stealing shovels from Andrew Lomax, was fined $5.

A man, arrested by Officers Henderson and Roberts charged with drunkenness, was held.

Mary Brown, colored, arrested by Officer Roberts charged with disorderly conduct, was dismissed.

John Richwine, colored, arrested by Officer Gill as a suspicious character, was fined $10.

River Notes.

The puny Shining Light is loading a cargo of salt at this port for the fish packing houses in Washington.

The schooner Samuel Wood and W. H. Maguire with salt from the Italian barkentine Antonio D'Alì sailed yesterday from W. A. Smoot & Co.'s wharf for the Great West Coast river.

The three-masted schooner William Marshall is at the shipyard undergoing repairs.

Mr. William A. Moore, chief engineer of the Randall line, is at Newport News superintending the building of a new main shaft for the steamer Samuel J. Pent.

The steamer Charles Macalester, has been thoroughly renovated and repainted and inaugurated the spring schedule to Mount Vernon yesterday.

Foreign Vessels.

A dispatch to the New York World announcing the arrival at this port of the Italian barkentine Antonio D'Alì says this is the first foreign cargo to arrive at this port since the civil war. This seems to be the impression in other places closer than New York. It has been but two or three years ago since a cargo arrived here in a foreign vessel from the south temperate zone, and other vessels, including foreign steamers, from different climes have come here in recent years. The World says Alexandria had at one time a larger foreign trade than New York, but it is doubtless mistaken in this assertion, although within the memory of many now living foreign flags were common at Alexandria wharves at the docks of this port, and they may be the advance guard of others to come in the near future.

The Electric Railway.

The Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon Railway Company has ordered eight new motor cars for the service between this city and Washington. The motors will be more powerful than those now in use and will be of sufficient energy to carry two trailers up the grade on Fourteenth street, Washington. As has heretofore been stated, when the new iron railway bridge over the Potomac shall have been completed it is the purpose of the company to run trains from each end at short intervals.

The Fishery.

The clear weather of today has brightened the countenances of those interested in the fishery. Fishtown has been made ready, but there was tardiness this morning, no fish having arrived during the previous forty-eight hours. Messrs. Chas. King & Son erected a shed over the northern part of the wharf last spring, and Messrs. Price & Co. are placing a similar structure on the southern end. A few colored women were strolling along the wharf this morning anxiously anticipating arrivals in order that they might engage in cutting herring.

Black Bass in the Pipe.

A gentleman of this city a day or two ago experienced trouble with a water pipe, and, believing he could remedy the difficulty, he procured a wrench and having cut the water off made an examination. He was unable to discover what congested the pipe and having replaced the portion that had been removed, turned the water on again, when, to his surprise, a small black bass ran out of the spigot, after which the water flowed freely. The gentleman has the bass in an aquarium and is exhibiting it to acquaintances.

A Cold Wave.

The temperature last night was again uncomfortably cold. About nine o'clock the wind blew heavily from the north, wafting snow flurries through the city, and driving most people from the streets. A few minutes later the skies became clear and the moon shone brightly. The mercury in the thermometer at 6 o'clock this morning stood at 29°. Considerable ice formed and the air was crisp during the early morning hours.

Operations have begun on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal for the season. Six boats were loaded with coal in Cumberland yesterday, making the opening of the boating season. The first boat out was No. 13, Capt. Charles Fox.

Death of General Payne.

General William H. Payne, whose serious illness has been referred to several times recently, died this morning at 11:35 o'clock at his apartments in the Gloucester, in Washington. He was surrounded by the members of his family when the end came. They had recently been ceaseless in their vigils, aware as they were, during the past week that his life was slowly ebbing.

Gen. Payne was one of the most noted of the Confederate cavalry leaders. He was born at Clifton, Fauquier county, Va., June 15, 1830, and was educated for the law. In 1853 he was elected Commonwealth's Attorney for Fauquier county, his opponent being the late Robt. Scott. At the outbreak of the civil war he organized the famous Black Horse Cavalry of Virginia and commanded his organization at the first battle of Bull Run. He was promoted to be major within two weeks after his first engagement and was assigned to the 4th Virginia cavalry. He remained with this command during the next two years and was promoted to be lieutenant colonel in 1862 and colonel in 1863. In November, 1864, he was made a brigadier general in the cavalry service of the Confederate army and commanded a brigade in Fitzhugh Lee's division.

Gen. Payne was seriously wounded three times during the war and was frequently mentioned in dispatches and general orders for distinguished services. At the close of the war Gen. Payne entered upon the practice of law and on the organization of the Southern railway was made one of its legal representatives. For many years past Gen. Payne has been one of the chief counsel of the Southern and in this capacity he has spent much of his time in Washington. He was married just before the outbreak of the civil war and has six children—Harry Payne, Wilson Payne, Arthur Payne, W. W. Payne, C. B. Payne and Mrs. Virginia S. Hunton. General Payne was president of the organization of veterans of the old Black Horse cavalry, which has kept alive the name of the famous organization. The deceased was at one time a member of the Legislature. There were times in his life when he could have held more exalted positions and doubtless could on more than one occasion have received the nomination for Congress or governor. His circle of acquaintances was vast and his gentlemanly instincts made him friends wherever he went. He was a genuine type of the old Virginia gentleman, and his death is sincerely lamented, not only in the one commonwealth where he was so justly esteemed, but throughout this entire section of the country.

The remains will be taken to Warrenton, his old home, for interment and the funeral will take place there on Thursday evening at 3 o'clock. A special train will leave Washington on that morning for Warrenton, stopping here, and such of the friends of the General who wish to attend the funeral will be furnished transportation.

Baltimore Conference.

The opening sermon of the one hundred and twentieth annual session of the Baltimore Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South, will be preached this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Washington street Southern Methodist Church by Rev. John A. Anderson, of Central Church, Baltimore. This afternoon scores of ministerial and lay delegates arrived and were escorted to their homes by members of the entertainment committee. Most of the complement of about 400 delegates will be here in time for the business session tomorrow morning. After the usual religious exercises the conference will be opened by Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson, of Baltimore. Rev. James Armstrong, the official secretary, will be at his duties. Among his assistants is Rev. E. V. Regester, formerly local pastor, who will be recording secretary. Bishop and Mrs. Wilson will arrive this evening and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clinton Smoot, on Prince street. Wednesday evening Rev. John Hannon, D. D., of the Virginia Conference, will deliver a lecture in the Opera House on "Dynamite."

Struck by Engine.

Shortly after ten o'clock this morning a south bound light locomotive of the Southern Railway struck a buggy containing Dr. E. A. Gorman on the east side of Henry street, near King. The horse's legs were broken, the buggy badly damaged and the doctor injured about one of his knees. Officer Smith subsequently killed the horse at the doctor's request. Flagman P. W. Simpson says he was in the centre of the electric railway track west of the Southern track at the time of the accident, that when the locomotive reached the intersection Dr. Gorman was driving westward almost on a line with the curbing of the east side of Henry street. The doctor turned suddenly to the south on Henry street, and when he had proceeded a few yards his horse was struck by the engine with the result given above. Dr. Gorman says that he was unaware of the fact that an engine was approaching and had almost reached the intersection of the two streets when he saw the locomotive, and turned his horse to the left in order to avoid the accident. Engineer Ticer had charge of the locomotive.

Colored Man Killed.

Early last night Mr. Winter Crupper, night watchman in the Washington Southern Railway yards in this city, discovered the dead body of a strange colored man on one of the tracks. The head had been severed from the body by a Southern Railway train which was being run on the Washington-Southern tracks. The remains were placed near the Armory ice house, south of the Southern Railway, and this morning Dr. Purvis, the Coroner, was notified. He declined to hold an inquest from the fact that the killing occurred in Fairfax county. The body was turned over to Demaine & Son, and later Justice Bowie of the county held an examination. It was agreed that the killing was the result of an accident. No one could identify the deceased. He is supposed to have belonged to one of the gangs engaged in double-tracking near this city.

Fell Through a Trestle.

An engine used by the contractors on the Washington-Southern Railway fell through the trestle near Cameron run, a short distance west of this city, this morning. Engineer Thornbury jumped and escaped material injury. A locomotive of the R. F. & P. R. R. was under the trestle at the time, and the falling engine came in contact with and almost demolished it.

Washington Medallions.

Hon. J. Wesley Gaines, of Tennessee, a member of the committee on coinage, weights and measures of the House of Representatives, and who from the first has taken great interest in the proposed monument to Washington, writes Secretary A. J. Wedderburn under date of March 26, as follows: "I desire to acknowledge with many thanks the bronze medals commemorating notable events in the life of George Washington in his relations with the city of Alexandria struck by order of Congress for the Washington Monument Association of your city. It is altogether appropriate that a monument should be erected in his home town and the effort deserves the hearty aid and approbation of Americans everywhere. He made an impression upon the world of civilization that shall endure forever and the world has been profuse in tribute to the deliverer of mankind, and now it is peculiarly meet that the spot that was blessed with his personal presence should make imperishable acknowledgment of his civic virtues."

Among the subscriptions received today for the Washington Memorial Medallions was an order for a set from Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts who desired an extra fireman's medallion.

Struck by Electric Train.

A wagon belonging to James D. Webster was struck by a south-bound electric train at the intersection of Cameron and Alfred streets about eleven o'clock this morning. Neither the horse nor buggy was materially damaged, but Lew Diggs, colored, one of the occupants, was thrown out and painfully injured about the head. The train which struck the wagon was the second section of a Mount Vernon train. The driver saw and avoided the first section, but failed to see the second until it was upon the vehicle.
